4. Engagement Analysis

The combined sample engagement volume was 24,600 interactions. TikTok generated the stronger engagement volume, while Facebook contributed meaningful reach and service-oriented interactions.

Key engagement drivers: short educational videos, simple banking tips, promotional announcements, questions/polls, and customer-focused posts.

5. Growth Analysis

Platform	Estimated Followers Before	New Followers	Estimated Followers After
TikTok	8,700	2,430	11,130
Facebook	12,400	1,680	14,080

6. Key Findings

- Short-form video content produced the strongest visibility.
- Promotional content performed better when combined with educational information.
- Consistent posting supported follower growth.
- Facebook remained useful for credibility, service communication, and community reach.
- TikTok showed stronger potential for rapid organic discovery and engagement.

7. Recommendations for the Next Month

1. Increase short educational banking videos.
2. Use clear calls-to-action such as Follow, Comment, Share, and Learn More.
3. Test multiple video hooks during the first 2–3 seconds.
4. Promote only content that already demonstrates strong organic performance.
5. Track each campaign separately using reach, engagement, cost per result, and follower growth.
6. Maintain a consistent weekly publishing schedule across both platforms.

8. Management Conclusion

Based on the sample figures, Arhaba Bank's June 2025 social media activity demonstrated positive potential for awareness, engagement, and audience growth. The next stage should focus on improving content consistency, measuring paid campaigns more precisely, and converting social-media attention into meaningful customer actions.
